

Statement on corporate governance

1. CORPORATE GOVERNANCE CODE (application and deviation from provisions)

The Ljubljana Stock Exchange, the Slovene Directors Association and the Managers' Association of Slovenia jointly formulated and adopted on 8 December 2009 the amended Corporate Governance Code (hereafter the 'Code').

Considering that the amended Code entered into effect as of 1 January 2010, Nova KBM applied in the period from 1 January to 31 December 2009 with regard to the corporate governance the Code that was adopted on 18 March 2004, and amended and supplemented on 14 December 2005 and 5 February 2007 by the above stated entities. The Code which the Bank applied and the amended version of the Code are published on websites of the stated entities.

The Bank set out the reasons for deviations from the provisions of the Code applied during 2009 in the section headed 'Corporate governance statement', which is an integral part of the Bank's 2009 Annual Report.

In setting up and developing transparent, clear and successful governance and management system, the Bank will endeavour as much as feasibly possible to comply during 2010 with regulatory provisions, as well as with highest standards of responsible and well thought-out management of the Bank, which are set out in the amended Code (in particular with regard to the Management Policy, transparent and effective work of the Supervisory Board, and transparent management and supervisory bodies remuneration system), thus further increasing the confidence of domestic and foreign investors, employees and broader public in the Bank's management.

In addition to striving for maximising the Bank's value and creating a long-term share price growth, the Bank complies with these standards in order to satisfy the interests of employees, creditors and other stakeholders, as well as of the Bank as a whole, which, in accordance with internal and external global objectives, provides for successful long-term growth of the Bank's assets.

The Bank and its bodies were endeavouring to fully observe the provisions of the Code which was in effect and used in 2009. However, in certain instances the Bank's operations deviated from individual provisions of the Code. In compliance with the Preamble of the Code (and the principle of 'comply or explain'), the Bank sets out below the reasons for such deviations. The reasons were mainly related to the characteristics of the banking industry, the specific ownership structure of the Bank, and to other circumstances which had an impact on the governance and management of the Bank.

Code provision

The key goal of a public limited company engaged in a gainful activity is to maximise the company's value. This and other goals, pursued by the company in performing its activity, should be stated in the company's articles of association.

Reason for deviation

For each financial year, the Bank sets out its objectives in the Business Policy and Financial Plan as well as in the strategy for a respective period.

Point 1.3.10*Code provision*

If the general meeting is to elect members of the supervisory board or the board of directors, as proposed by the supervisory board or the board of directors, the substantiation of such proposals for resolutions to be adopted should include – along with the data required by law (name and surname, education, appropriate work experience and current employment) – at least the information on the proposed nominee's membership in other management or supervisory bodies and any potential conflicts of interests. The management should also express their view on whether the proposed nominee is independent in relation to the company (whether he is economically, personally or in any other way closely linked to the company or its management).

It is recommended that this information is made public and available to the proposed nominee for a member of a management or supervisory body from the time when the general meeting has been convened, in the manner described in subsections 1.3.7 and 1.3.9 of the Code.

Reason for deviation

Should the Shareholders' Meeting, at its next session, also decide about members of the Supervisory Board, and should proposals for nominations be submitted in due time, the Management Board and the Supervisory Board will ensure that, along with the data required by law, the information about the proposed nominee's membership in other management or supervisory bodies, and any potential conflicts of interest will be included in the proposal for a nomination. This information will be made public and available from the date of the call of the meeting, as set out in points 1.3.7 and 1.3.9 of the Code.

Point 1.3.18*Code provision*

The general meeting should elect members of the supervisory board and members of the board of directors individually.

Reason for deviation

In accordance with the existing practice, the Shareholders' Meeting has been electing members of the Supervisory Board jointly. In the future, however, a decision of appointing members of the Supervisory Board (individually or jointly) will be at the discretion of the Bank's shareholders.

Point 2.2.2*Code provision*

At the beginning of their term of office, the members of the management board should, in addition to the requirements stipulated by law, meet additional requirements related to the position of a management board member. These requirements should be stipulated by the company's articles of association or a supervisory board's resolution.

Reason for deviation

The provision of the Articles of Association in respect of requirements for a Management Board member refers to the Banking Act (ZBan-1) which, as a special law, stipulates additional requirements for a Management Board member to those stipulated in the Companies Act (ZGD-1). Therefore, stipulating these requirements in the Articles of Association or in a resolution of the Supervisory Board is not considered to be necessary.

However, the Supervisory Board did adopt in 2009 additional requirements, criteria and procedures for appointing a Management Board member.

Point 2.3.2

Code provision

The policy of determining the level of remuneration, compensations and other benefits of the management board members should be specified in advance and should observe the following criteria:

- duties of individual members
- performance of individual members
- size of the company and its financial position
- pretentiousness of managing the company, with a view to its business and organisational complexity
- the company's performance
- implementation of strategic and annual plans
- remuneration of management board members in associated companies
- recommendations for remunerations, adopted by relevant professional organisations.

Reason for deviation

The remuneration, compensations and other benefits of the Management Board members are, considering the ownership structure of the Bank until the end of December 2009 and the specific operating environment in which the Bank conducted its business during 2009, adjusted to the provisions set out in the Decision of the Government of the Republic of Slovenia dated 22 January 2009 on recommendations to be followed upon signing management contracts by representatives of the Republic of Slovenia acting on supervisory bodies of companies which are majority owned by the Republic of Slovenia. In awarding the annual performance fee to the Management Board members for their work during 2008, the Supervisory Board complied with the criteria from the above stated Government's decision, and specific criteria based on this provision of the Code.

The Bank will formulate the Remuneration Policy for the Members of Management and Supervisory Bodies which will, in accordance with the amended Code, include criteria from the previous paragraph. The policy will be referred for decision to the 2010 Shareholders' Meeting.

Point 2.3.8

Code provision

The total remuneration, compensations and other benefits of management board members should be annually disclosed in the notes to the financial statements and should be given in net and gross amounts for each management board member. Remuneration should be broken down as follows:

- fixed component of earnings
- variable component of earnings (long-term and short-term incentives for achieving higher productivity and performance-related earnings, excluding profit sharing)
- profit sharing
- share options
- other earnings of management board members (severance pay, additional insurance premiums, benefits).

If a management board member's remuneration consists also of the company's shares, the earnings should be broken down into money and company's shares.

It is recommended that the disclosure of management board members' remuneration includes a description of the policy of earnings (the ratio between the variable and fixed payment components; a detailed account of performance measures used to establish the variable payment component; an estimate of the value of non-cash benefits; details regarding the severance pay; competition clause), as adopted and exercised by the supervisory board.

Reason for deviation

In 2009, the Management Board members did not participate in profit sharing and were not granted share options.

Following the adoption of the Remuneration Policy for the Members of Management and Supervisory Bodies by the Shareholders' Meeting and the Supervisory Board, the disclosure of Management Board members' remuneration will include also the information about the remuneration policy.

Point 3.3.6

Code provision

In collecting the nominations, the supervisory board or its special committee should consider special criteria, determined in advance. It is recommended that in selecting the nominees, the following is considered:

- comprehensive business knowledge and appropriate expertise for effective performance of the function (whereby the company's specific features should be taken into account, such as the industry in which the company operates, international activities, etc.)
- potential conflicts of interest as specified in point 3.5 of the Code
- business ethics and personal integrity
- appropriate documents and evidence of relevant knowledge, evidencing that a nominee is qualified for officiating on supervisory boards
- sufficient time available.

It is recommended that knowledge, experience and qualifications of individual members are well balanced.

Reason for deviation

The Bank complies with the provisions of the Banking Act that determine in detail obligatory criteria and requirements the nominees for the Supervisory Board must meet.

In compliance with the Companies Act and the Banking Act, the Supervisory Board set up Supervisory Board Committees, which, pursuant to the provisions of the Code, shall submit to the Shareholders' Meeting an opinion with regard to nominees for the Supervisory Board.

In preparing proposals for Supervisory Board members in 2010, the competent Supervisory Board Committees and the Supervisory Board will consider also provisions of the amended Code, thus ensuring improved efficiency and transparency in the selection of candidates.

Point 3.4.1

Code provision

For their work, the supervisory board members should be entitled to:

- remuneration for performing the function
- remuneration for officiating on the supervisory board committees
- attendance fees
- reimbursement of expenses.

Supervisory board members should not be remunerated with share options or comparable financial instruments. It is not recommended that the major part of their remuneration be directly related to the company's performance.

Reason for deviation

In accordance with the amended Companies Act (ZGD-1C) and on this basis adopted changes to the Bank's Articles of Association by the 2009 Shareholders' Meeting, the Supervisory Board members are not entitled to receive any remuneration that is directly related to the Bank's performance (i.e. to participate in profit), as disclosed in the Bank's Financial Statements. In 2009, the Supervisory Board members did not participate in profit and were not remunerated with share options or other comparable financial instruments.

Point 3.4.4

Code provision

A supervisory board member who is also a member of the management in an associated company should not receive any special remuneration for performing his/her duties as a supervisory board member, only the reimbursement of expenses.

Reason for deviation

The Bank derogates from this provision of the Code since the Banking Act, as a special law, allows that a member of the Management Board of Nova KBM receives a special remuneration for performing his/her duties as a Supervisory Board member in associated companies of the Bank. Information on remuneration of the Management Board members received for performing their duties as Supervisory Board members of Nova KBM Group companies is disclosed in the Financial Report. Remuneration of Supervisory Board members in associated companies is adjusted to the Decision of the Government of the Republic of Slovenia dated 22 January 2009 on recommendations to be followed upon signing management contracts by representatives of the Republic of Slovenia acting on supervisory bodies of companies which are majority owned by the Republic of Slovenia.

Point 8.16

Code provision

The company's management is responsible for preparing and implementing the company's communication strategy. The strategy should include:

- identification of stakeholders, and of the communication strategy and cooperation with individual shareholders (creditors, suppliers, buyers, the media, analysts, state authorities, local community, employees)
- selection of persons responsible for communicating with investors or the public (the recommended persons to handle the organisation of internal procedures are management board members or executive directors, financial directors or persons in charge of investor relations)
- clearly defined flow and internal supervision of price-sensitive information within the company, from its origin to its public announcement, and the provision of the protection of business secrets
- identification of the contents and procedures of public relations (e.g.: prompt disclosure of information through public announcements, publications, press conferences, the company's websites, delivery of materials, open-door day).

Reason for deviation

In addition to persons responsible for organising internal procedures, the Investor Relations Officer is in charge of communication with shareholders and the public.

Internal control of price-sensitive information, from its origin to its public announcement, and the provision of the protection of business secret were complied with during 2009 by observing applicable regulations. Rules for the protection of business secret in Nova KBM are also set out in the special Bank's Regulations on Business Secret and Information Protection.

In February 2009, rules of internal control of price-sensitive information, from its origin to its public announcement, were included in the special Regulations on Restrictions in Trading in Nova KBM shares.

2. DESCRIPTION OF MAIN FEATURES OF INTERNAL CONTROL AND RISK MANAGEMENT IN CONNECTION WITH FINANCIAL REPORTING PROCEDURES

The Management Board adopted operational and organisational rules for the establishment and the functioning of internal control system which are used also by the Group subsidiaries. The aim of internal controls is to ensure that the Bank's operations are focused on its main (cardinal) and basic business objectives, that proper accounting principles as well as internal and external financial reporting are applied, and that the Bank's operations are carried out in compliance with the law and business ethics. Internal controls are established within all processes and organisational units of the Bank, at all levels.

Risk management is an important part of the management and governance system, and relates to identification, measurement and assessment of risk arising from the Bank's operations and from its environment. The risk management system is supported by an appropriate internal control system.

Procedures of risk management, the objective of managing individual risks as well as duties and responsibilities for managing risks are set out in individual risk management policies. As a general rule, each company in the Group is responsible for identifying and managing all risks to which it is exposed.

Assessing and managing risks has an important impact on setting up the business and strategic plan of the Bank and the Group, and on the decision-making process in commercial transactions, individual agreements, investments and other activities. The control of risk management is based on monthly reports which are reviewed by ALCO.

The Internal Audit Centre assesses the adequacy and efficiency of applicable internal controls, including information technology security and control, and assesses their reliability in accomplishing strategic and implementation objectives, considering at the same time the management of risks to which the Bank is exposed. The Internal Audit Centre reports to the Management Board, the Audit Committee and the Supervisory Board on a regular basis.

The internal control system and the risk management system are evaluated each year by external auditors appointed for the audit of the Bank's annual report.
